casion Daniel Webster was invited to make a speech at Worcester, Massachusetts. He was to speak at one o'clock, and a large concourse of people were awaiting his arrival. About a quarter past twelve he came in by rail, and was escorted to the chief hotel in the place—a was escorted to the chief hotel in the place—a house conducted strictly on cold-water principles. The great orator was shown to his room and immediately rang for the waiter. Upon his arrival, Mr. Webster told him that he was very much exhausted by travel, and that he must have some brandy.—The servant answered that such a request could not, by any means, be complied with. Mr. W. replied that whether it could, or could not, he must have a little brandy, declaring that he could not speak without it. After a great deal of argument, accompanied by a bribe, he got the fellow to bring him a bottle. When he returned to the room he peeped round to see that there was nobody in but Mr. Webster, and then he said accompanied by a bribe, he got the fellow to bring him a bottle. When he returned to the room he peeped round to see that there was nobody in but Mr. Webster, and then he said to him in a whisper: "Please, sir, don't let any one know I got this for you—hide it as quick as you can!" "I'll hide it quick enough, said the Senator, "it will be under my jacket in a few minutes." So he dispatched his drink, after which, feeling himself equal to the task, he sallied forth to the rostrum, where the great expounder made one of his most mag-nificent . guris.

PRINCE ARTHUR INTERVIEWED .- The en-Press, determined to interview Prince Arthur; and with this determination boldly jumped upon the steps of the car, when he met one of the attendants. The following conversation ensued.

Attendant-What do you want 'ere? Press Reporter-I represent the Daily Press, and would like to see Prince Arthur. Attendant-Well, you can't see 'im, ee's busy. Press Reporter-I guess not. He don't ap pear to be very busy.

Here the Prince, having been attracted to a position not far from the door, by the dialogue, palled out in a bluff voice : "What's the matter out there?"

Attendant-A newspaper reporter wants to see you. Prince Arthur- Tell him to go to 'ell He can't see me.

A BORE .- They tell a funny story in the London clubs about Vernon Harcourt, the "Historicus" of the London Times. Four gentlemen were discussing the subject of bores, each declaring that he knew the most disagreesble man in the world, and the dispute growing animated, it was agreed that the four bores should be brought together at dinner. Accor dingly the day was appointed, and each gentle man agreed to bring his bore to the Star and Garter, at Richmond, where covers were to be laid for eight. The hour arrived and three carriages drove up to the door of the famous ian, each with but one occupant. Three of the four gentlemen had been disappointed in their man, through a previous engagement. At length the fourth carriage came, and out of it stepped Mr. Vernon Harcourt. "Hang the tellow," said the other three in chorus, as the tourth gentleman followed, "he has brought my SCIENTIFIC. -They tell a good story of a certain well known professor of natural science. It was the custom of the doctor to encourage his geology class to collect specimens and bring them into the class for analysis and classification. So one day a number of specimens were laid upon the table, and among them one broken bit, which, although streaked and stained to impose on the doctor, was really nothing but a piece of common brick. In due time the protessor came to the specimens. Taking up one, he said at a glance: "This is a piece of baryta from the Cheshire mines;" holding up another -"This is a piece of feldspar from the Port land quarries; the next is a piece of quartz from Haddam; and this," coming to the brick, "is a piece of impudence from a member of this class.

MEXICAN WHEAT .- When Cortez reached Mexico, one of his soldiers found in his haver; sack four grains of wheat. He planted these upon the land allotted him by the conqueror, and having carefully saved their produce, he planted more land the next year. It is a historical fact that from these four grains has been derived all the wheat since raised in Mexico.

It is in the moral world as in the physicalthe greatest results sometimes flow from the smallest beginnings. No one knows what an incalculable amount of good or of evil may be the consequence of his most trivial actions.

ARTIFICAL ICE.-Mr. Joseph Clemins, of Lynchburg, proposes, we understand, to manufacture ice by artificial processes, for sale in that market, during the coming summer. As is well known, the crop of ice in this latitude was almost an absolute failure this season. The artifical manufacture of ice has been recently introduced in some parts of the South and car-account were kept, both of immigrants and emigrants and emigrants, the latter would be found to exceed in numbers the former, and the result would show that in the few years since the war, we have lost, rather than gained, in population.

Consumption. Who have injured themselves by a cel-tain practice, included in, a habit fre-quently learnest from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when alteep, and, it not enred, renders marriage emposable, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be enathed from all prespects and enjoyments of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain se crot habit Such porsons muel, boing contenreflect that a cound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial Lap-piness. Indeed, without these the journe, through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prosp of hourly dari ens to the view, the mind becomes shadewed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness on Mother becomes blighted with your awn

DISEABLE OF IMPRUDENCE When the misgnatat and imprudent votary of pleasure fluds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discov ery deters him from applying to there, wto from education and respectability, can alon befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their ap pearance, such as ulcerated scretnroat, diseased nose, necturnal pains in the head and limbs dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity till at last the palate of the mouth or the cone of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commissara tion, till death puts a period to his dreadful sut ferings, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns." It is a MELANCHOLY FACT that thou sands fall victims to this terrible disease, owing to the unskilfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that DEADLY POISON, MYR. CURY, ruin the constitution and make the
